District Governors

Rotarians Produce — This Is Your Life—Nattie Taylor!

Nattie Taylor, the Glades representative on the list of District Governors appeared casually at Friday's regular Rotary meeting, where she was asked to read the book, "This Is Your Life," which she had written. She was accompanied by her husband, Bob Lee, and her son, Robert.

Incidents of interest and historical happenings were told, from birth to the present day, with members of the family filling in specific details. Mrs. Taylor added to Bob's imaginative recount of courtship details of N. T. (Nattie) Taylor, a woolen mill worker with "moonlighting" as a sideline with the Express Company.

Daughter, Mrs. Louise Thomas, added her bit in a recitation of her father's life. Nattie Taylor dated her acquaintance and the commencement of activity of the "love bugs" to their high school days. Nephew George Wedgworth told of Nattie's association with the Wedgworth Industries and of the many years of loyal and aggressive association. Sister Neva (Springer) Kidd was joined by her

Rotarian husband, Ralph in outlining the years of association and devoted workings with the Church. The program was entirely unexpected by Nattie and members of her family were brought in at opportune times to his great surprise. Dr. Clarence Kidd, a Rotarian, participated in the recitation of Uncle Nattie's activities. The honor to Nattie Taylor, retiring District Governor of Rotary International, filled the heart of the "country boy" and was most impressive on the audience.

George Wedgworth FEC Director

George Wedgworth, an organizer and the President of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida (Glades Sugar House) was elected by invitation to the Board of Directors of the Florida East Coast Railway at the annual meeting of the stockholders held in Jacksonville on May 18th. Mr. John H. Perry, Jr., Chairman of the Perry news papers resigned his membership on the Board due to the press of other business, according to FEC President W. L. Thornton. All other directors were re-elected.

Mr. Wedgworth, a product of Glades schools, preceding his graduation from a midwestern University, and a dist. farmer in the Glades, has had a managerial association with the Wedgworth Enterprises, and consequently years of experience as a shipper. His work with the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association and his present position as President of that group gives the new Director an intimate knowledge of the needs of the agricultural industry and the limitations of the rail facilities in the State.

Governor Lurleen Has George... HIGH has?

GOVERNOR Lurleen will "Let George Do It" in Alabama. Robert King High, as Governor, has two defeated candidates, Adam Clayton Powell, and, respectively, the socialist Kennedy, Bob, as well as the GRASPING DADE COUNTY to advise him. Senator Kelly and Representative Karl have been rejected by Florida voters. Between Kennedy and Dade County's dominating demands, you be the judge. All admit that Governor Burns will "do it himself." "Why 'buy a pig in a poke'?"

"Loss Of Glades Soil Can Be Slowed By Water Management Practices"

Growers who use the rich Everglades farming land—occasionally called the "win-win-said bowl" of the nation—face a dilemma. Some day, maybe before the turn of the century, growers will find themselves down to bedrock, now an average of five to six feet from the surface. At the moment there's no way of stopping this soil loss except by continual flooding, but this blocks cultivation.

However, the loss of water can be slowed by water management practices, says Dr. F. H. Thomas, assistant chemist at the Everglades Experiment Station. Water is the key element in both the formation and decomposition of organic soils. Marshes, bogs and swamps in the Everglades provide conditions suitable for the accumulation of organic debris.

Florida has about three million acres of organic soil. Of this, two million acres are in a single deposit—the Everglades. Thomas says that as long as favorable conditions prevail, the organic soils will build up. But when they're drained for cultivation, the process is reversed. The soil, instead of building up, begins to decrease in depth, or subside. He said the most common causes of subsidence of organic soils are drainage, shrinkage from drying, compaction, biological and chemical oxidation, burning, wind erosion and mining.

According to Thomas, the subsidence rate is greatest during the first few years after drainage. During this time, shrinkage, compaction and oxidation occur at a high rate. This rate, however, can be controlled by not over-draining the land. (Continued On Page 9)

Hangers For Glades Airport, Roads, Discussed By Commission

Glades area County Commission Bud Weaver studied different locations this past weekend, in an effort to select a type of hanger most appropriate for use at the Glades County Airport. Space for two of the two engine craft, plus 12 to 14 single engine craft is needed at the airport. The type most suitable is called a "T" hanger, according to the commission.

Cost of the type which would withstand high winds would be approximately $40,000.00, complete, with concrete floor. Cost of the project would not come from county funds but would be financed through the obligation retired thru rental of the hanger space. The airport manager would collect rental fees and the county would in turn remit the fees to the building contractor. The county would act as underwriter of the obligation.

The cost of insurance would be less for aircraft owners using the hanger, according to the commission, and would guarantee the safety of the aircraft from weather and vandalism. The county is rebuilding Rita road, between Bare Beach on old U. S. 27 and the Rita labor camp. Plans are for the road to be paved with blacktop, and for an area to be designated on one side, away from the canal, for the moving of farm equipment.

The contract has been let for the construction of a prestressed steel concrete bridge at nine mile bend, however actual construction has been delayed due to difficulties in obtaining the necessary steel. Clary Bros., were the successful bidders. After the bridge is built—and the plans call for it to be completed before the next harvest season begins—the county plans to extend Airport Road east to the new bridge. The new bridge and road will be built sufficiently strong to carry any possible loads, according to the Commissioner.

Visitors At Sweet Corn Field Day Here From All Over United States

Over 45 visitors from all over the United States attended the Special Sweet Corn Field Day held on Monday, May 16th, at the Everglades Experiment Station, and saw something new which may change the sweet corn industry. Visitors saw, and tasted, the difference in sweet corn and were so impressed with the work of Mr. Emil Wolf that they wanted to put the new "Staysweet No. 104" into crop production at once.

Mr. Wolf, Plant Breeder for Sweet Corn and Celery at the Experiment Station, cooked four varieties of sweet corn for the day. Each variety had been picked six days previously, and each had the same treatment insofar as cooling and storage. But the difference in eating was vastly different, with the difference being in favor of Mr. Wolf's Staysweet No. 104.

The current label variety now used almost exclusively in the Glades, the Illini Chiff variety, and two new varieties, Stay-sweet No. 104 and Stay-sweet No. 8, were served to visitors by Chief Cook Wolf without butter or salt and "prettier" ear of Stay-sweet No. 104. Assisting Mr. Wolf in his work is Mr. R. K. Shaw, a post harvest handling expert from the University of Florida.

Big City Politics-

The power of urban area controlled bloc voting was strongly demonstrated on May 3rd in Florida's first primary. This trend brings a new type of politics to a state which had long prided itself on its freedom from machine or bloc voting. THE BIG CITY VOTE BECOMES INCREASINGLY IMPORTANT IN FLORIDA when one considers the concentration of the state's population center Bay area, the central Florida Orlando area, northeast Florida, such as the lower southeast Miami area, the Tampa or Jacksonville area, and the far west, or panhandle Pensacola area. In between these areas lie many small and medium sized counties, rural in population and conservative in their philosophy. Some of Florida's great leaders of the past who contributed greatly to the tremendous progress of this state were products of these smaller areas.

Does the new trend mean that a person must now be from the big city to qualify as a statewide officer? We talk a lot today about forms of discrimination but this trend could become highly discriminatory and contrary to democratic ideals, when a person interested in running for a statewide office would first have to decide which of the major population areas of the state he should move to in order to stand the best chance of winning.

What is the answer? An enlightened voting citizen is the only answer. No candidate can quarrel with results even if they vote contrary to his side, provided there is a good majority who vote, and if the issues are fairly presented. WE CANNOT UNDERSTAND THE CITIZEN WHO ALLOWS THE MOST TRIVIAL EXCUSES TO PREVENT HIS VOTING AND THEN GRIPES ABOUT THE RESULTS. Even though the big city outnumbers you, your voice can be heard by exercising your right of franchise.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT
Southern States Industrial Council

"THE UGLY SENATOR"

In a series of speeches critical of this country's character, Senator J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) has accused the United States of the arrogance of power. On May 4, he charged that the U. S. is in danger of equating "its power with virtue."

Senator Fulbright's accusations and charges are not so much directed at specific policies as at the history of the American Republic. Americans may properly feel affronted by Senator Fulbright's words. Many of them may conclude, as has former Sen. Barry Goldwater, that Sen. Fulbright should resign as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Descent from governmental policies always is permissible under the American system. Without congressional and other opposition, the administration in power would go unchecked. But Sen. Fulbright isn't engaged in normal criticism of public policies. Instead he is painting an ugly picture of the American intent in the world. This is why former Sen. Goldwater believes Sen. Fulbright should resign. The Senator from Arkansas seems bent on convincing the American people that they are indeed "ugly Americans," to use a phrase now well known.

In so doing, Sen. Fulbright is giving the enemies of the United States, all the material they could want. If a U. S. Senator presents the United States as arrogant, then the communists have their job done for them. Editors of communist propaganda journals the world over have grist for their mill in the statements made by Sen. Fulbright.

The accusations made by Sen. Fulbright should be thrown back in his face. Was the United States arrogant when it fought back after Pearl Harbor? Was there arrogance in the U. S. decision to conduct the Berlin air lift and save the West Berliners from communist captivity? Are our soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines arrogant when they offer their lives in defense of freedom on the battlefields of Viet Nam?

The truth is that Americans are singularly lacking in arrogance. With our great strength, Americans could be the most swaggering of conquerors. But we bend over backward to be considerate to nations around the world.

As a matter of fact, our fault as a nation is not arrogance but a tendency toward superciliousness. The U.

S. has the power to smash the communist dictatorship 90 miles from the Florida keys, but the liberals in power have been too timid to tackle the Castro tyranny. Time and again in the U. N., the United States has been abused by petty states and little has been done to rebuke these nations. In Viet Nam, the armored forces have had to fight with one hand tied behind their back, because the Fulbright types oppose strong action. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, for example, nearly had a fit in the Senate when he learned the U. S. would not give Chinese communist aircraft a privileged sanctuary such as they enjoyed in the Korean War.

Reading Sen. Fulbright's speeches about the alleged evils of the United States way in the world, one searches vainly for a clear-cut description by the Senator of the kind of America he wants. He doesn't come out flatly and endorse the idea of the U. S. as a doormat for the world. But one gets a strong impression that he would have the U. S. act in this manner. He doesn't say he wants the United States to relinquish its role as the greatest power on earth; but one also gets the impression he would not be unhappy if the U. S. were a second-class power.

The evils that Sen. Fulbright sees on the international scene seem chiefly to be American evils, not the evils of systems opposing the U. S. It is time surely for Sen. Fulbright to be more candid with the people of Arkansas and the United States and to come out frankly and fully with a description of the precise role he would have the U. S. play in the world.

In his last speech Senator Fulbright enumerated what he considers accomplishments of virtue by the Castro regime, and concluded these with the statement: "Most important of all is the sense of dignity and national pride associated with the revolution. After six decades of being an economic colony of the United States, Cuba has achieved the pride of Castro's successful defiance of the North American giant."

When a senator reaches the point where he feels it necessary to praise the accomplishments of a communist dictator of a fear-ridden police state as opposed to his own home-land, which has given away $120 billion or more in foreign aid since the close of the Second World War, then he is labeling himself as "The Ugly Senator."

They're Ours!

History's verdict on our Constitution, after almost a 100-year trial is:

We have only 6% of the world's population; yet we have 57 percent of the world's automobiles; Forty-one percent of the world's radios; and Forty-seven percent of the world's television sets.

We have more college opportunities than any other country in the world.

These are, of course, only material evidence of God's blessings on this country; our spiritual heritage is far greater and deeper.

Our Armed Forces have saved the world twice, and slowed down a take-over of Asiatic countries once.

General Jackson, replying to the British Army's message before New Orleans, "Tomorrow morning at this time we will get our breakfast on your camp grounds because we have several lords and General Pakenham with us" said to the British: "Come right on, for I have on my side the Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord God Almighty, and Andrew Jackson."

The Lord Jesus Christ certainly isn't on the side of the Communist in Vietnam, or elsewhere.

Almighty, and Andrew Jackson."

Uncle Sam From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was of the opinion the country was going cuckoo on account of automation and everybody trying to git things done the short way.

Ed Doolittle reported he had saw where one feller punched a couple extra pin holes in his state income tax card and sent his refund to Look Magazine and the magazine sent him a three-year subscription.

Zeke Grubb said he was reading this piece in the papers where this town sent out all the water bills wrong and the town got out a letter to all the people explaining the card machine had made a mistake but it wouldn't admit it and they was nothing they could do about it but hope the machine would catch the mistake next month.

All the fellers was agreed that if the post office was any way to judge how automation was working in Government, we already got more of it than we need. Ed said he ain't never been to the post office when the stamp machine was working, that it's always got a piece of tape pasted over the money hole and a note to buy stamps at the window.

The feller that runs the store said in this day and time you can take your car to a "analyst" to git it examined, you can buy everything from house paint to bacon drippings in a spray can, but we have to take memory pills to recollect where we left our raincoats.

And Clem Webster allowed as how this was the year the Governor of Florida was running his wife for Governor and somebody come out with the slogan "bed fellers make strange politics." Furthermore, reported Clem, this was the year the Men Will Never Fly Society was making a pitch for more members.

where a Government agency had made a study of the paper clip that was invented 500 years ago and found that only one clip out of five was used for clipping paper. The rest was used for everything from holding up wimmen's stockings to cleaning pipes and picking teeth. Bug also figured some of 'em was now being used to keep all our punch card machines going.

And I was reading, Mister Editor, where a North Carolina woman left her $200,000 estate to her two canary birds and her cat. With the cost of living climbing higher, the cost of gitting buried going up and the insurance you git when you die going down, it looks like we might as well just give it all to the birds and the cats.

I tell you, Mister Editor, I don't know where we're going but we're going fast.

It IS Something!

Joining the Great Society is becoming more inviting every day. On the other hand, supporting the Great Society in years to come becomes more and more of a nightmare to the taxpayers. Our friend Publisher, Shorty Mullinger of Okeechobee News expressed it well in his editorial.

"We are thinking of resigning as Publisher of the Okeechobee News and retiring."

We can't see why we should worry any longer about getting ahead in life, when the Great Society is so eager to take care of us.

Now in effect or being proposed, we can get our food from Welfare, our rent will be paid, Medicare will take care of our hospital bills and each American family is to be guaranteed $3,000 a year.

Just think how good things are going to be. All I have to do is go over to see Clyde Coffman and get on the welfare roll and receive all the grub I need. Then go around to the agency that will pass out the rent check. From there to the agency that puts American families on the pay roll, for $3,000 a year. If I get sick or get a wart on my back side, all I have to do is call up Dr. Horton and tell him I want it out and charge it to Uncle Sam. Of course the Good Doctor would cooperate, but if I just happened to show up on a Friday afternoon, and if the 5:00 whistle blows during the wart removing process, the Doctor would lay down his tools and go home, because under Medicare, Doctor's work eight hours a day and 40 hours a week and there I would be with my bare end sticking out till Monday morning.

If this give away program of the Great Society continues to grow, this Nation will have more than their bare end sticking out before it is over.

One hundred years of healing through prayer

This book presents an impressive record of authenticated cases of outstanding physical healing and spiritual regeneration through Christian prayer. It is a timely response to today's renewed interest in spiritual healing.

The reader will find many instances where the individual who experienced the healing explains the spiritual awakening which brought about those healings. This book commemorates the Centennial of the discovery of Christian Science in 1866 by Mary Baker Eddy. It is offered in a spirit of sharing the hope and joy of ordinary lives deeply touched by the Christ.

Lutheran Worship Services

An Ascension Day service will be held at St. Peter's Lutheran Church on Thursday evening, May 19th, at 8 p. m. On this day, forty days after Easter, the anniversary of Christ's Ascension into heaven to the right hand of God will be observed.

Ascension Day was observed at least from the fourth century with processional pilgrimages outside the cities. This recalled our Lord's leading the disciples out to the Mount of Olives, where He lifted up His hands and blessed them.

The sermon theme for Ascension Day is "Christ on the Right Hand of God." I Peter 3:15-22. All are invited to attend the observance of this unique historic occasion. Following the service refreshments will be served in the Educational Bldg.

Expansion Of So. Bell Cable Network Underway To Meet Increasing Demand

A $21,000 expansion of Southern Bell's telephone cable network is nearing completion in Belle Glade.

The expansion consists of 15,600 feet of aerial and underground cable, with size ranging from 2,400 to 200 pairs of talking circuits.

"We're installing the cable and additional circuits to take care of the ever-increasing demand for telephone service in the Belle Glade area," said Charles Leonard, Southern Bell manager here.

He said 3,000 feet of 200 pair and 11,000 feet of 200 pair aerial cable is being strung along Canal Street from N.W. 2nd Street to the F. E. C. Railroad tracks. There it will be spliced into existing distribution cables feeding the Northwest section of town.

The underground cable has been placed in conduit along NW 2nd Street from the telephone equipment building at 108 SW Ave. C to Canal Street. This 2,400 pair cable will feed not only the above aerial cable addition, but will also be spliced into existing cables serving the entire area north of Canal both east and west of Main Street.

A Day In The Life Of An Average Student

It was a typical lousy Monday morning; the sky was dark and the air was cold; a day that seemed made for Edgar Allan Poe or some other weird poet. I arrived at school late as usual, but it being Monday morning, I couldn't have cared less.

During first period the class was in its typical condition. The teacher, and the teacher, as usual, was in a state of shock. The students listened to the announcements with intense indifference, while talking about such important subjects as dating, parking, and so forth. Monday in Mrs. Nick's class was her "easy day." The last "easy day" we had was worse than the massacre of General Custer; "all" we had to do was memorize "Macbeth," write 15 essays on subjects such as "Pygmalion," and volume 3 of the "Encyclopedia Britannica."

After nearly twelve heart failures, I was relieved of my sentence by the bell. As I left I felt relieved; Mrs. Nick had "only" assigned ten hours of homework.

In second period, Mrs. Litchfield's class, we had our six weeks test for which I had studied nearly three minutes. After about fifteen minutes of tedious argument, Mrs. Litchfield finally consented to tell us the answer to number one — the definition of a needle. After a lecture about not remembering anything we learned in the eighth grade, we were given permission to start on the second question of the test. What part of the hand does the thumb protect? This was omitted by most of us scholars. Nick's three, and extra credit problem: the spelling of HOME ECONOMICS — took most of the remaining time in the period.

Third period, is shorthand class taught by Mr. Rosco, the owner of the only polka-dot podium in the school. After his usual lecture on insurance, we were able to discuss shorthand for the rest of the period-five minutes.

Finally lunch period arrived, and, eagerly anticipating the "delicacy of the day," I had been beaten by the slowly Sophomores and Juniors, who would once again keep a Senior from having their "butting" privilege. After receiving my "hot" lunch, I fought my way through the barrage of prunes and straws to a place at the end of the table. After breaking a fork in the meat loaf, choking on the prunes in my mad haste to get to the "delicacy of the month," peach halves stuffed with raisins and peanut butter, I hobbled from the lunchroom. Belle Glade High School should be granted another title, "The Home of the Steel Stomachs."

When the bell for fourth period finally rang, my indignation had reached its peak. Chemistry class was filled with many of the more intelligent B-level students. One group of science-inclined boys was studying something about energy of falling "spit-wads." In the rear of the room three members of my own feminine sex were discussing Ancient History-things like why had Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher been divorced, or how Elvis Presley spent his years in the Army. Our teacher, Mr. Starnes, was helping some of his student who was in "trouble." Because I needed some material for an English theme I obtained a pass and headed for the "Hall of Silence" — the library. When I arrived I received the usual cordial welcome offered to all students from the "Keeper of Silence — Mrs. Jones." After being chain ed in a isolated corner of the great "Hall," I diligently and enthusiastically began research for my Home Ec. report, "The Reproductive System of the Cloths Moth." I actually became so involved that I forgot to go to Fifth Period Algebra Class. But like I said it was Monday and "ask me if I cared!"

Finally the bell rang for sixth period journalism class. After my two-page contribution of "Filthy" gossip to the Ram-page, I obtained a pass to go to physics to talk to the beautiful captains about a narticle on the last game. Somehow I became engaged in the much loved calisthenics. After the eight count push-ups, it was ready to go back to class, but the coach had different ideas for his phys. ed. boys. (He hadn't noticed me yet.) Next came barbells and weight lifting until the bell rang. After more hours of sprinting, hurdling, and pumping, I sneaked into the girls locker room, showered and crawled home.

Students Of The Week

Senior students of the week are Brenda Jean Bass and James Cary Wall. Brenda is a 5' 7", blue-eyed and tight brown-haired senior. When she's not running the B & B Stamp Center, she's busy with her outside hobbies and interests which include sewing, reading, playing piano. In addition to her job at the stamp store, Brenda is a pianist at First Baptist & plays for the youth department, is treasurer of the Beta Club, secretary of the FTA and Co-editor of the Ram-Page. She was also recipient of the Citizenship Award in the 6th grade. In spite of the fact that she keeps pretty busy, you can frequently see her motor-toring around town in a blue Corvair wagon. She would much rather be in a blue Corvair than in a blue Corvair.

Cary Wall, known as C. Wall by his friends, is a shy and "luddy" senior. He is treasurer of the Internet & was selected as Co-Captain of the Golden Rams football squad by his team mates. Although he lists his favorite pastime as either laying around or running around, he spends most of his time working at the B & B and as he says, "mopping floors to 9:30 PM."

Where The Action Is

What Could You Say!

Have you ever been in an embarrassing situation, caused by an insulting remark made to you? At one time or another many people have been approached with these unpolite statements.

What do you do? You're too humiliated not to say anything back. But, you need to be simple and disbelieving.

The first thing you need to do is to catch the person while he's off guard. This trick requires exquisite timing, and witiness on your part.

The following are possible situations with brilliant comebacks.

THE SITUATION — You're approached again by the goof-off who tries to get you to do her work for her.

YOUR SOLUTION — "I guess they were too busy trying to teach us manners."

THE SITUATION — Someone asks you, "Why do you wear your hair (or clothes) like that?"

YOUR SOLUTION — "Reply pleasantly, 'Oh, it amuses me.'"

THE SITUATION — Your most ornery aunt seizes you by your ignorance of some point, with "My heavens, didn't you, even learn that in school."

YOUR SOLUTION — "I agree with you. Apologetically respond: 'I guess they were too busy trying to teach us manners.'"

THE SITUATION — The dean calls you in to discuss the low opinion you expressed of one of more of your teachers.

YOUR SOLUTION — "Observe, thoughtfully, 'You know, I agree with La Rochefoucauld, don't you?—that there are no poor students, only poor teachers.' (If you can't pronounce La Rochefoucauld, just attribute it to Mark Twain.)"

THE SITUATION — Your chubby younger sister keeps borrowing your red robe, and thus rendering it shapeless.

YOUR SOLUTION — "Talk to a very woman-to-woman: 'You have a marvelous fashion sense — but never forget, the most important thing about clothes is a perfect fit.'"

Art News

Students in art are beginning to get that old "Exhibit Feeling" and it is all because of the art exhibit scheduled for Monday, May 23. Many students are putting finishing touches on some of their most cherished items. So far, we can see the following categories of art objects being shown: Fashion Designs, Drawings and Painting, Ceramics, Graphic Design, Signs and Posters (By Poster Design Class) and a variety of craft projects.
Our exhibit may not compare with one at the Dore or Norton, but we are not trying to compete with artists in these exhibits. We are trying to come up to their standards and eventually surpass them.
See you at our exhibit Monday, May 23.

For Your Information

If a girl has accepted a boy's invitation to a dance, the boy calls for the girl at the home. The boy must see and talk with a member of the girl's family, to find out what time she is to be home, and by these rules he is responsible for her safe conduct, pleasure there, and safe return home.
Because a boy is taking a girl to a dance he must not think that complete "ownership" of the girl goes with the evening's little contract. The boy should not insist upon a "one-partner evening," with himself the only companion.
A boy may send flowers to the girl by invitation to a dance. If the girl has refused one boy's invitation to dance, she must not accept another boy's invitation for the same dance except by the same dance Extraordinary.

Student Council Holds Annual Student Assistance Day

The eve of Student Assistance Day was highlighted by a general assembly for all students with John Ellison, a member of the Student Council presiding. The main attraction for this assembly was the inspiring address which was given by Curtis Boston who served as Assistant Principal for the day. The speaker was introduced by Barbara Ann Finney, the President of the Student Council.
In his address to the group Boston reminded all of the students that the success or failure of the day depended a great deal on their cooperation. He, therefore, appealed to the group for their full cooperation and support.
Quoting from Boston's speech:
"Today the council felt would be a good day to attempt a trial basis which is referred to as the honor system, but we must be remember that with every privilege there is a responsibility attached. We are also aware of the fact that whatever we do affects someone else. It is your responsibility to see that you yourself do the right thing, then next make sure that your fellow classmates do the right thing also. If this is done then that wonderful relationship of student helping student will become a reality."
William Harper, who served as Principal for the day stated that of all the honors and recognitions that he had received during his high school career, to him the honor of having been chosen from the council to those students who had been chosen to serve as Student Assistants.
The Male Chorus from East Lake School of Pabodie, under the direction of Mr. William Jackson sang several songs.
Before the ending of the assembly, the presiding officer offered this challenge from the council to those students who had been chosen to serve:
"We hereby challenge each of you to uphold the position of trust which has been entrusted to you for tomorrow to the best of your ability. May your experiences be enriching as well as enlightening."
The committee and Student Council would like to express their thanks and appreciation to all who helped to make the day a success.

Henry Elfers

Customers of Modern Woodmen of American like Henry C. Elfers of South Bay believe they like the way he treats them and their money. Regardless of business expansion, he has never lost the personal touch regarding every claim or question.

With an informed background in the insurance business, he is able to give a clear analysis of a family's financial security and show ways to stretch coverage far beyond what was expected the family budget would allow. He has been more than an insurance agent, he has been a trusted friend and advisor to many here.

His method of business operation proves that he is much more interested in a person's future business and good than in today's sale.

Henry has been as dependable in civic progress as he has in his business and has always done his share in helping mold a better place to live. He has been 9 years on city council and 3 times been very active in Red Cross, Salvation Army, Heart Fund, Christmas tree for children and food baskets for the needy. A dependable man, he is well suited to his line of business and this has proved profitable for him and his customers.

Price M. Meeks

Good friendly retail stores go a long way in building a town's reputation as a good place to do business or as a good place to live. No business establishment is friendly by itself. The owner must practice courtesy and hire personnel who will do the same.

Mr. Price M. Meeks of Meeks Furniture Store at 732 S. W. Ave., Fair Deal Grocery at 429 S. W. Ave. C. and Alabama and Georgia Grocery at 748 S. W. Ave. E, feel he has obligation to customers of courteous and friendly service.

The energy Price has given to business, and also given to all endeavors with which he has been associated, in the Belle Glade area, there are few movements promising to the community which he has not helped along. In the operation of these stores, Mr. Meeks has displayed good taste and kindness which are rarely seen such as all the little extra services that make a good business better.

We wish to congratulate Price Meeks on his past success and wish for him many more years of continued prosperity.

Sarah C. Fears

The contributions to progress of our close friends and neighbors are often overlooked simply because we know them so well and the prime purpose of this review is to bestow a little credit upon those who have in one way or another, contributed their bit to improve both business and civic conditions in the area.

One of the well known citizens who deserves mention is Mrs. Sarah C. Fears, owner of Fears Hotel at 158 S. Main and Fears Department Store at 116 W. Ave. A. She has assumed a position of importance because of the business-like manner in which she has conducted her hotel and department store and for the friendly relationship that exists between her and all who patronize her business. This does much to maintain a friendly spirit, a very important item toward progress.

Sarah Fears has become a prominent figure in Belle Glade because of her high standards of business operations and active interest in civic affairs and we are proud to include her, Fears Hotel and Fears Department Store in this review.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brown

One city that has become prominent as a trade center where friendliness, courtesy and goodwill will prevail is Belle Glade and it is fitting that we accord a word of praise for the business people who, by the manner in which they conduct their business, have gained this reputation for their city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brown who with the aid of their son Bonnie operate Air-

Service Station at 1180 N. Main, by fulfilling the responsibilities of good neighbors have made a substantial contribution to the area's welfare and progress. The success of this business can be measured in human terms but the fulfillment of its obligations to customer and community.

In civic movements, the Browns, believing in "nothing ventured, nothing gained," have been every ready to become a part of any plan for community advancement. Their willingness to write off outmoded methods, plans and equipment, which they have outlived their usefulness, made them a key figure in the progress of this business and therefore the community.

They have many friends here and it is a pleasure to highlight them.

C. S. Nicks

Norman Nicks

We join with the farmers of this area in bestowing some well earned praise on Mr. C. S. Nicks and Mr. Norman Nicks of Tru-Flo Corp. at 924 N. W. 11th St. for their part in the promotion of agriculture in this area. Growers have found that production on the increase due to the excellent drainage and irrigation pumps at their disposal. They have come to realize the "know how" behind this business and have the utmost confidence in the Nicks judgment as to type of pump needed.

Their practice of fair play and square dealing in business has made it seemingly impossible to find a person who does not echo our respect for their abilities.

Although somewhat detached from the central hub of the city's business, they nevertheless take a keen interest in all community endeavors and have done more than their bit in making our town the progressive community it is today. Since the growth and expansion of a city depends to a great extent upon the business leaders behind it, we consider it a privilege to direct a few words of praise in the right direction. We hope Mr. Norman Nicks continue to serve the growers of this area for many years to come.

Bon Allred

Hattie Allred

Robert Allred

Mr. Bon Allred, Mrs. Hattie Allred and Mr. Robert Allred are to be commended for their high code of ethics for business relations, their desire to serve their fellowmen and their participation in civic and community responsibility.

These days of "sharp trading" such ideas deserve prominent mention. Allred's, Bail and Tackle Shop at Canal Point built with careful planning and hard work is successful, largely because of the Allred's careful attention to detail and their popularity in the community reflects their friendly disposition that has gone far in making them "pals" to almost every customer of their bait and tackle business.

With Canal Point's business people playing such an important role in the city's development, we are fortunate to have them in a position of prominence, not only to raise the prestige of the town, but to make it a friendly community.

Jesse Barnes

Imogene Barnes

Jesse and Imogene Barnes of South Bay ESSO Service Station and Greyhound Bus Agents on U. S. 27 N. South Bay have won the regard of the people of the Glades area and it is perhaps because they are pleased to be your neighbor. They genuinely like life in the business world of the Glades and have achieved success in his private affairs and because he is willing to contribute to the public good.

We believe Bill Draper is entitled to our praise, both because he has achieved success in his private affairs and because he is willing to contribute to the public good.

Jesse and Imogene's good taste, good judgment and good character have gained this reputation for their city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brown who with the aid of their son Bonnie operate Air-

People of discernment know that from their popular ESSO Station they will receive the type of auto servicing they are looking for. They may speak eloquently of their high standard of operation.

Combine a friendly couple, a friendly business and a friendly town and the ultimate success cannot even be measured by financial terms.

W. S. Ingram

In the Glades area, the name Glades Tire & Recap at 41 S. E. Ave. C, is always mentioned. Harris has been a discussion on the finest in tires and recapping. This business is now under the capable direction of W. S. Ingram and F. L. Harris.

Taking pride in the fact that their business has played a part in the unprecedented growth of the area, they enthusiastically endeavor to keep the business the finest in every respect and keep it known as a business you can patronize with confidence.

With a business backed by a wealth of experience, Mr. Ingram and Mr. Harris have used the past years in learning how to offer the public the finest auto and truck tire recapping available anywhere.

These men are typical of the hard working business people that are so vital in the area's continued prosperity. They are people who have done more than their share in the Glades and do not hesitate to lend their support to activities advantageous to the section.

Broward J. Johns

Every progressive and successful business person in the area contributes in some manner to the growth and progress of this section. Such a person willing to do his part in community and business activities is Broward J. Johns. He is located at 601 NW Ave. G. He is experienced and professional to offer customers a complete harvesting service.

The prominent part this business plays in the agricultural market on the progressiveness and ability of such a person as he. Furthermore, he has, at all times, been at the forefront in his devotion to the Glades area and on many occasions has lent his support to the successful promotion of meritorious civic projects.

This area is fortunate to have such a person as Mr. Johns in a position of respectability and service and we feel he amply merits this brief tribute.

Bill Draper

Because it is a period of growth and expansion for the Glades area, those people who have the foresight and ability to lay their plans so as to be able to take advantage of these conditions are entitled to more than ordinary acclaim.

We are therefore glad to pay tribute to Mr. Bill Draper of Southeastern Dusters and Spongers on the Airport Road. His persistent optimism and steadfast belief in the continued prosperity of the people of the Glades area has resulted in his investing much time and money in his business and is characteristic which are deserving of our highest praise.

This man who offers a unique service by being the only crop duster to offer night dusting, has always shown a willingness to do his part in community advancement and has contributed his bit, in one form or another, to projects prompted for the welfare of the area.

We believe Bill Draper is entitled to our praise, both because he has achieved success in his private affairs and because he is willing to contribute to the public good.

Richard D. Harris

Possibly no profession has advanced more rapidly in the past decade than that of the auto mechanic and in today's highly competitive business world anyone who keeps up with the times in their profession deserves a word of praise.

One member of this rapidly advancing profession who has kept pace with the times is Mr. Richard D. Harris, owner of Harris Garage, 1524 S. W. Ave. E, Belle Glade. With 25 years in this field, Mr. Harris has gained prominence as an expert auto mechanic.

He has also gained prominence by the manner in which he has accepted his responsibilities, to the community. It is people such as he who become active in community affairs and who share with a smile.

Belle Glade's growth is due to people who maintain better business establishments and who do their share to make a better community and we join with the friends and customers of Richard D. Harris in saying that he has succeeded in both.

Joe Steele

Poorly constructed buildings or dwellings not only injure the reputation of the builder, but often times harm the entire community. We therefore consider a dependable, experienced builder a valuable link in community growth and direct your attention to Joe Steele Building Contractor at 80 S. E. 3 St.

Many of the area's finest structures are a direct result to his knowledge and skill. Those who have done business with Joe are laudatory in their praise of his judgment in selecting the best materials and employing expert craftsmen.

A well known and active businessman, Joe Steele is to be congratulated for dependability in all matters. He has always helped on any civic endeavors he thought would help this section. His reputation for integrity and excellent workmanship is no greater than the fine name he has as a good builder in a good community.

Palmer January

People in this section have come to look to Palmer January Grocery at 1600 W. Canal St. for the finest meats, vegetables, hardware, produce, ice and beer. The operation of the business faithfully reflects the personality of the man who guides its operation, Mr. Palmer January.

His American and modern business outlook is a better merchandise at lower cost — has contributed much to the success and growth of this area can be proud.

Mr. January considers it a pleasure to serve the people of the area, feels a strong obligation to his friends and neighbors and is always ready to go to aid in any commendable civic project.

He is firmly established in the business cycle of this area, and has proved that he is an enterprising person. He is qualified to operate in a business alert to expansion and development of the area and therefore deserving of our tribute.

Ed Motes

Within a short time agriculture, because of the mechanized industry whose tremendous growth has necessitated the employing of large numbers of people, is expanding operation and one service which has contributed as much to these changes as any other is the Box Supply business. Mr. Ed Motes of American Box Co. on NW 11 has gained wide acclaim among the growers and packers for dependability and his mode of operation has kept pace with the industry's rapid growth. Growers and packers speak eloquently of the service of this organization and attribute their own success partly to it and Ed Motes is proud to have played a prominent part in the beneficial changes. With an established tradition of dependability, he has spared no effort to improve and expand his service and we hope he will serve the people here for many years to come.

Stanley Watson

Through the years, Ford has been recognized and respected as one of the finest automobile manufacturers in the United States. It is only natural that the owner of our local Ford agency Mr. Stanley Watson of Watson Ford, Inc. at 25 S. E. Ave. E should be included in this review. It is only natural that people have progressive opinions of community affairs and consistency which they receive at his firm and Mr. Watson has been quick to supplement Ford's tried and true principles of honesty, proved true through the years, with special plans in keeping with the progressive business world.

Stanley Watson, unquestionably, is counted with the really fine citizens of Belle Glade for he boldly states that he is looking forward to doing business in the same ideal under the same place and under the same people of this area, he has never refused to do anything that would be a detriment to the community. Men such as Stanley Watson, without showing them in any way, are dependable and reliable business men.

Jim Graham

Performing an outstanding job for the people of Jim Graham Realtor at 548 S. Main, has received an enviable reputation for his progressive policies of business administration.

This man who was elected to the Board of Directors of the P. B. County Board of Realtors is a man of ideas and is as aggressive in putting these ideas to beneficial use in furthering the service he renders to the people.

His sound business judgment, and knowledge of the local Real Estate and his unwavering honesty are characteristics which place him in the first rank of the business leaders of the city. Yet, he is unassuming and modest in the presence of his friends and always ready to listen to their ideas and desires.

He has a great record in civic activities. He works on the Beautification Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Elks, Lions, Masons and American Legion.

We are glad to pay tribute to progressive citizens of this type for it is such people as Jim Graham who have caused Belle Glade to become known as the business center of this district.

Dick Johnson

Doris Johnson

Business people in a city that has the Glades must adhere to certain standards of conduct if they are to maintain a "growing business." This set of standards could very well have been based on the qualities of Dick and Doris Johnson's Bail and Tackle at 2748 W. Canal N. Every customer of this bait, tackle and beer business knows that he has received the full measure of value and service for the money he does not believe in half-way measure. They seem to fully realize that success is due to the people who patronize their business and they are ever ready to show appreciation to them in any way possible. That making a friend and pleasing a customer is the one thing that their business is carried on. Therefore, such people as Mr. & Mrs. Johnson should be included, for through their contributions of time and money, many worthwhile civic projects have been helped along.

John E. Moses

Honesty and integrity in the insurance business are as important as knowledge in attaining customer satisfaction for the layman must often seek the advice of the dealer when seeking the proper insurance to suit his particular need.

In this area, the people have learned that from John E. Moses Insurance at 1108 N. E. 1st, they receive the best of answers and insurance to suit their needs. This is backed not only by the experience of Mr. Moses but by State Farm Inc. Co's.

Such high principles bring not only will earn respect to people who operate in this area have been quick to realize the advantages of dealing with an honest and high quality business man. We place Mr. Moses high on the list of the really fine business "contributions" to the community affairs of the State Farm to our readers.

Louis Kirchman

Edie Kirchman

It is Belle Glade's good fortune to have attracted Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kirchman with their expert take-out food service to the area and it is with pride we highlight Fr-Eddy's Box Lunches at 701 NW Ave. L. The Kirchmans, in their ability to serve better food at such a low price to their patrons, know good food and have the art and dedication needed to prepare it properly.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kirchman, who are at 140 N. Market Rd. Pahokee, have been known to two of the best men in the heavy lifting crane service and building business and even those in the same community respect their ability. They guarantee all work and it seems that no job is too difficult.

We have directed your attention to the Weeks skill in business but not to be overlooked in their role as nice fellows and good citizens of the community. With solid roots in the business life of the Glades area, they have become popular figures in the civic and social life of the area. They like Pahokee and are happy to work with others on civic projects of common interest.

Manuel Chancy

As customers appreciate the expert craftsmanship of J. G. Weeks and James M. Weeks, we appreciate their part as reliable and upstanding businessmen.

In business as in baseball, it is not win today's game. Seemingly to realize this, Mr. Manuel Chancy of Chancy's Shell on St. Rd. 71, constantly endeavors to keep in step with the times, and retain the life of the business leader.

The energy Mr. Chancy has given to his trucking business, he has also given to all endeavors in which he has been associated. In this area there are few movements for the civic betterment in which he has not assisted.

In the operation of his business he displays a perception of good taste and a keen eye for the little free extra service expected of a modern service station.

We wish to congratulate Manuel Chancy on his past success and wish for him many more years of continued success as one of the area's most popular business people.

Wm. H. "Bill" Acree, Jr.

A city does not just happen there are people who are built. If they are beautiful up to date cities they are built by experienced reliable builders who not only have pride in their city but in their reputation. This area has many beautiful homes and buildings and is getting even better every day.

Mr. William H. "Bill" Acree, Jr., General Contractor, 1111 N. W. Ave. F, is one of the better build-

M. T. Burry

The continued confidence of the people of the entire area have had in the Agricultural Insecticide Co. Inc. at 47 S. E. Ave. B has made the business and Mr. Milton Burry worth mention in this review.

Maintaining tested policies of the past and Insecticides, Fungicides and Herbicides of the present business has prospered even in today's competitive business world.

Mr. Burry has shown a keen interest in the area and there fore understands and appreciates local conditions. His thorough knowledge of Agriculture plus his employing only the best trained experts to service sugar cane and control cane borer and his honesty in all of his dealings has placed him in the group with those in business of possible people who aid in their needs. Therefore, we make this a good section. This man and this business have merited the approval and good will they will now enjoy and we are sure that they will continue to do well.

H. E. Allen

A successful business is most often based on honest, cheerful and efficient service to the public, and in the case of H. E. Allen of Allen's Fruit Stand at 810 Belle Glade Rd., Canal Point. The courtesy and service rendered by this fruit, vegetable, meat, drug and fish and tackle business is proved by the large volume of repeat business that comes to his store. It is due to the careful attention to each area for many more years to come.

J. G. Weeks

James M. Weeks

Mr. J. G. Weeks and Mr. James M. Weeks of J. G. Weeks and Sons at 140 N. Market Rd. Pahokee, have been known to two of the best men in the heavy lifting crane service and building business and even those in the same community respect their ability. They guarantee all work and it seems that no job is too difficult.

We have directed your attention to the Weeks skill in business but not to be overlooked in their role as nice fellows and good citizens of the community. With solid roots in the business life of the Glades area, they have become popular figures in the civic and social life of the area. They like Pahokee and are happy to work with others on civic projects of common interest.

FCD Shortens Kissimmee 42 Miles

Land purchases to create large impoundment areas for preservation and enhancement of fish and wildlife in the Kissimmee River Basin are nearing completion, it was announced today.

Riley S. Miles of Kissimmee, Governing Board Chairman of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District said, "Almost 8,000 acres are being acquired by the FCD for the impoundment areas at an approximate cost of $93,000," for four of five dams.

"Fish biologists consider such areas most productive as fish nursery grounds," he said.

"Impoundment areas, such as the ones being developed at structures along the river, are formed by permitting water from the main channel to spread over vegetation at existing ground levels," Miles explained.

The river, which formerly curled 100 miles between Lake Kissimmee and Lake Okechobee, is being transformed into a 58-mile long super-waterway. Boats up to 5 1/2 foot draft will be able to navigate the deeper, straighter channel.

Total estimated cost of the project is $29 million. The program will serve a 75-square mile drainage area.

While water control and navigation are key features of the Project, fish and wildlife preservation was a major consideration during planning stages. After consulting with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, which handles project construction, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the FCD began to acquire land for the impoundment areas more than a year ago.

Water levels in the impoundment areas, necessarily shallow, will be controlled by the major spillway structures in the improved channel. It is expected that the complete Project will become operational sometime in 1969, provided that construction funds continue to be appropriated at federal and state levels.

Creation of the Kissimmee River impoundment areas also includes a plan for attracting waterfowl to at least one of the abutment areas. The Game Commission has discussed the possibility of independently regulating water elevations in a portion of one impoundment area to grow ovens in summer months, then flood it about October for the waterfowl.

BOY SCOUTS ACTIVITIES

Troop 601 First Aid Drill

At the Thursday night meeting of the Glades District Troop 601, sponsored by the Episcopal Church, a first aid drill was conducted.

Unexpected by the boys, Scoutmaster Bill Deen excitedly announced to the troop that someone had just received a head injury on an open window. The boys quickly learned that Assistant Scoutmaster Felder Pittman was the unfortunate victim.

After a moment of shock the scouts reacted as a team by applying the necessary first aid, which they had learned in their scout training. The boys soon realized that this was just another demonstration of realistic first aid.

The purpose of the drill was to teach the scouts to meet quickly and skillfully such emergencies, and to show that they had a thorough knowledge in first aid.

Committee Chairman Reginald Lewis assisted Mr. Pittman in preparing and carrying out the drill. Of course Mr. Pittman was none the worse, except for a stained shirt and face.

National Aquatic Courses For S. E. States In June

The Red Cross is enrolling students for instructor courses at national aquatic and small craft safety schools to be conducted in southeastern states in June.

Arnold W. Winkenhof, director of Safety Services for the Southeastern Area, has announced.

Instructor courses in swimming and lifesaving and first aid will be given at Camp Kiwan, Middleton, Tenn., June 5-15; Blue Star Camp, Hendersonville, N. C., June 6-16; and Camp Ocala, Umatilla, Fla., June 6-16.

A fourth school, to be devoted solely to qualifying small craft safety instructors, will be held at Camp Thunderbird, near Clover, S. C., June 6-16. This school will offer specialized courses in canoeing, sailing and outboard motor boating, also handling of small craft, and rescue techniques.

The June schools at Middleton and Hendersonville also will offer courses in competitive swimming. Elective courses for instructors of swimming for the handicapped are slated at Camp Ocala, also an instructor course in sailing.

Purpose of the schools is to provide trained aquatic and small craft leaders and instructors for schools, camp recreation and parks departments, youth organizations, clubs and other groups.

Persons interested are advised by Winkenhof to contact their Red Cross chapters.

Volunteer instructors, mainly from college and university physical education departments, and industrial safety departments, will assist Red Cross safety staff at school facilities.

Real happiness is more of a habit than an attainment. It is the companion of cheerfulness and the creature of circumstances. Happiness is what overtakes us when we forget ourselves, when we learn to open our eyes in optimism and close the door in the face of defeat. We win happiness when we lose ourselves in service to others.

Gove PTA Has Musical Program And Installs Officers In Monday Night Ceremonies

GOVE PTA OFFICERS INSTALLED — R-L, Mrs. Mina Murry, vice-president of the Palm Beach County Council of PTA, installed W. L. Cunningham, Jr., President; Joe Clayton, Vice-President; Mrs. Leon Webster, Recording Sec.; Mrs. Clarence Pate, Corres., Sec.; Mrs. Douglas Thompson, Jr., Treasurer; Mrs. R. H. Cooper, Historian.

"The Sound of Music" was presented at Gove Elementary School on Monday night when Mrs. Esther Wenger, Public School Music Director of the Glades, and the fifth grade students entertained their parents, teachers, and friends with a demonstration of the basics of the flutaphone and three musical selections. Forty-six girls and boys comprise this group.

To further present the harmony of the night, Mr. Frederick Stevens, Band Director of Bella Glade High School and the Elementary Schools, directed his sixth grade students in seven musical selections. Seventeen students participate in the Gove Band.

Both groups were well received, and all present were delighted with the progress made by the pupils in their musical endeavor under the direction of Mrs. Wenger and Mr. Stevens.

Preceding the musical, Mrs. Mina Murry, Vice-President of the Palm Beach County Council of PTA, installed the incoming slate of officers. Those installed were: Mr. W. L. Cunningham, Jr., pres. Mr. Joe Clayton, vice pres., Mrs. Leon Webster, Rec. Sec., Mrs. Clarence Pate, corres. sec., Douglas Thompson, Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. R. H. Cooper, Historian. Mrs. Murray prefaced her installation with remarks of the National PTA Convention and its findings. She not only installed the officers but brought into the ceremony six attending parents and teachers when she asked for their own response.

The Rev. Madison Sindle of the Church of God gave the devotional from the 46th chapter of the Book of Psalms, reading his remarks with "God is Alive!"

The PTA made note during the business meeting that Mr. C. A. (Mutt) Thomas, an attending patron, had donated three air conditioners to the school which have been installed in the administrative wing. Mrs. Mabel Lutz, Principal, made an announcement that two pieces of playground equipment are now in the process of being made, this being a pending matter from the former meeting.

The surprise of the evening came when the eight months stronghold of two fourth grade rooms, on the best attendance award was broken by Mr. Karl Combs' sixth grade room winning the night's award. Mrs. Roger Cunningham presented the check. The award for the best attendance of the year went to Mrs. Dorothy Denlinger, of the fourth FLUTAPHONE PLAYERS — A portion of the forty-six boys and girls of the fifth grade entertained at the PTA meeting Monday night at Gove School, under the direction of Mrs. Esther Wenger.

SIXTH GRADE STUDENTS under the instruction of Frederick Stevens, Band Director of Bella Glade High School and Elementary Schools, presented seven musical selections. Mrs. Mabel Lutz, Principal is also shown with the group.

H. LOY ANDERSON
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

I would like to again thank the voters of Palm Beach County for their acceptance of my record as a business man and the program I have advanced during the past few months. The 16,456 votes which I received from the citizens of Palm Beach County (a lead of 4,345 over the nearest opponent) was a near record and it is my hope that you will again cast your vote for me next Tuesday. My wife and I have worked very hard, and we have invested our savings to bring my message to you and the desire I have to serve you in the state legislature.

Next Tuesday is election day and you will nominate the man who will represent you on the Democratic ticket next November. Your vote is earnestly solicited in support of my action program which includes:

- The immediate four-laning of State Road 80, a critical need in our east-west road system.
- My continuing fight against juvenile delinquency, along with fair and knowledgeable treatment of the special problems of our young people.
- My call for a study of proposed legislation to provide for highly qualified experts who would serve on a tax assessment review board.
- I will work hard to foster a proper atmosphere to attract industry, thereby providing more and better job opportunities.

My program includes year-round attention to the needs of our country, not just during the sixty-day, biennial legislative session; and to this end, I promise to devote the time necessary to effectively represent all of the people of Palm Beach County.

So many people have told me since May 3rd that you are supporting me because of my own qualifications, for my earnest and serious approach and because you know I will work hard. That is my promise to all of Palm Beach County, and I shall thank you so much for your vote next Tuesday.

Sincerely,

Public School Music

Dr. Frederick Fennel, Director of Orchestral Activities at the University of Miami will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Palm Beach County Music Educators Association May 23 at 8 p. m. at Forest Hill High School.

Dr. Fennel's subject will be "Public School Music Education as Viewed by an Orchestra Director." The Association recently sponsored the appearance here of a 60-member high school symphony orchestra from Sarasota. A few days later the county school board accepted the recommendation of Supt. Robert F. Fulton to establish a music department, at county level, under Assistant Supt. in Instruction, Charlie T. Council. The music department is expected to begin formally July 15.
